In compliance with the Court En Banc's directive, petitioner filed via registered mail an Amended Verified Petition for Review²⁸ on 18 July 2023.²⁹ The Court En Banc noted the same and directed respondents to file their comment thereon within ten (10) days from notice.³⁰

On 12 October 2023, respondents filed via registered mail their "Comment (To the Amended Verified Petition For Review dated July 18, 2023)"³¹ on the present petition.³²

Accordingly, the Court En Banc submitted the case for decision in a Minute Resolution dated 09 November 2023.³³

ISSUE

The main issue for the Court En Banc's determination is whether the First Division erred in dismissing the case and not proceeding to determine the existence of probable cause to charge respondent corporation for violation of Section 255³⁴ of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, or willful failure to pay deficiency income tax (IT) for the taxable year (TY) 2010.

ARGUMENTS

Petitioner raises the following arguments in support of the present Amended Verified Petition for Review:

1. Petitioner timely filed its MR³⁵ on the first assailed Resolution³⁶ on 13 February 2023, as the applicable rule in this case is the fifteen (15)-day period under Section 1³⁷, Rule 15 of the RRCTA, rather than the five (5)-day period under Item III(2)(c)³⁸ of the Revised Guidelines;
2. Prescription has not set in as the period of discovery and the institution of judicial proceedings for violation of Section 255³⁹ of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, not only triggers the commencement of the prescriptive period but, at the same time, triggers the interruption of the same prescriptive period; and,
3. Respondent corporation should be held liable for deliberate failure to pay IT for TY 2010 in violation of Section 255 of the NIRC of 1997, as amended.

Respondents, on the other hand, counter that petitioner's right to prosecute has already prescribed as the subject Information⁴⁰ was filed only on 05 December 2022 (beyond the five (5)-year prescriptive period under Section 281⁴¹ of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, which is reckoned from the finality of the assessment).

THE COURT EN BANC HAS JURISDICTION OVER THE PRESENT
PETITION FOR REVIEW.

In the first assailed Resolution⁴², the First Division denied petitioner's MR⁴³ for being filed out of time.

Petitioner, however, argues that the five (5)-day period mentioned in Item III(2)(c)⁴⁴ of the Revised Guidelines does not apply to the present case, particularly since the subject MR is not one filed against a resolution on a meritorious motion. Therefore, petitioner asserts that it was not required to file the MR within five (5) calendar days from receipt of the First Division's first assailed Resolution.

We agree with petitioner.

Under Section (2)(f), Rule 4 of the RRCTA, the Court En Banc has jurisdiction over appeals from decisions or resolutions on MRs promulgated by the Court in Division in its exclusive original jurisdiction over violations of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, viz:

SEC. 2. Cases within the jurisdiction of the Court en banc. — The Court en banc shall exercise exclusive appellate jurisdiction to review by appeal the following:

...
(f) Decisions, resolutions, or orders on motions for reconsideration or new trial of the Court in Division in the exercise of its exclusive original jurisdiction over cases involving criminal offenses arising from violations of the National Internal Revenue Code or the Tariff and Customs Code and other laws administered by the Bureau of Internal Revenue or Bureau of Customs[.]⁴⁵

Meanwhile, under Section 9(b), Rule 9 of the RRCTA, parties seeking to protest such a decision or resolution of the Court in Division must file a petition for review before the Court En Banc within 15 days from receipt of said issuance, to wit:

SEC. 9. Appeal; Period to Appeal. — ...

(b) An appeal to the Court en banc in criminal cases decided by the Court in Division shall be taken by filing a petition for review as provided in Rule 43 of the Rules of Court within fifteen days from receipt of a copy of the decision or resolution appealed from. The Court may, for good cause, extend the time for filing of the petition for review for an additional period not exceeding fifteen days.⁴⁶

In this case, petitioner filed the subject Information⁴⁷ before the First Division to charge respondent with violation of Section 255⁴⁸ of the NIRC of 1997, as amended. It, thus, falls under Section (2)(f), Rule 4 of the RRCTA.⁴⁹

Furthermore, on 06 March 2023, the First Division issued the second assailed Resolution⁵⁰, denying petitioner's MR⁵¹ (on the first assailed Resolution⁵²). Petitioner received it on 09 March 2023⁵³, giving it until 24 March 2023 within which to file a Petition for Review before the Court En Banc. Since the Verified Petition for Review⁵⁴ was filed on 24 March 2023, it was timely filed.

Lastly, contrary to the First Division's ruling, petitioner's MR (on the first assailed Resolution) was not filed out of time as the applicable reglementary period for filing an MR is 15 days under Section 1, Rule 15 of the RRCTA and not five (5) days under Item III(2)(c)⁵⁵ of the Revised Guidelines.

Section 1, Rule 15 of the RRCTA provides the general rule that an aggrieved party may file an MR to assail any issuance of this Court within 15 days from receipt of said issuance.

On the other hand, Item III(2)(c) of the Revised Guidelines specifically deals with the filing of an MR against a resolution on a “meritorious motion” in criminal cases. The said provision reads as follows:

III. Procedure

2. Motions

(c) Meritorious Motions. — Motions that allege plausible grounds supported by relevant documents and/or competent evidence, except those that are already covered by the Revised Guidelines, are meritorious motions, such as:

i. Motion to withdraw information, or to downgrade the charge in the original information, or to exclude an accused originally charged therein, filed by the prosecution as a result of a reinvestigation, reconsideration, and review;

ii. Motion to quash warrant of arrest;

iii. Motion to suspend arraignment on the ground of an unsound mental condition under Sec. 11 (a), Rule 116;

iv. Motion to suspend proceedings on the ground of a prejudicial question where a civil case was filed prior to the criminal case under Sec. 11 (b), Rule 116;

v. Motion to quash information on the grounds that the facts charged do not constitute an offense, lack of jurisdiction, extinction of criminal action or liability, or double jeopardy under Sec. 3, par. (a), (b), (g), and (i), Rule 117;

vi. Motion to discharge accused as a state witness under Sec. 17, Rule 119;

vii. Motion to quash search warrant under Sec. 14, Rule 126, or motion to suppress evidence; and viii. Motion to dismiss on the ground that the criminal case is a Strategic Lawsuit against Public Participation (SLAPP) under Rule 6 of the Rules of Procedure for Environmental Cases.

The motion for reconsideration of the resolution of a meritorious motion shall be filed within a non-extendible period of five (5) calendar days from receipt of such resolution[.]

Motions that do not conform to the above requirements shall be considered unmeritorious and shall be denied outright.⁵⁶

Although the list of “meritorious motions” under the Revised Guidelines is not exhaustive, as indicated by the phrase “such as” in Item III(2)(c) afore-cited, the types of motions for which the Revised Guidelines mandate a non-extendible five (5)-day reglementary period for filing an MR on the Court’s resolution should be limited to those expressly enumerated or similar in nature.

As inferred from the enumeration of “meritorious motions,” the Revised Guidelines create an exception to the general rule by shortening the reglementary period for filing an MR on the Court’s resolution regarding these specific motions from 15 days to five (5) days. This reduction aims to prevent potential delays and ensure the continuous trial of criminal cases, particularly when the Court denies such motions or finds no grounds for granting them.

However, with respect to a resolution dismissing a case on the ground of prescription, rendered by the Court motu proprio or without initiation by either party, an MR on such a resolution does not fall under “meritorious motions,” as defined under the Revised Guidelines. This is because it constitutes a final order that effectively terminates the proceedings. In this instance, the rationale for applying a shorter reglementary period does not apply, as the Court has already determined that the case should not proceed to trial.

It is also important to emphasize that the five (5)-day reglementary period under the Revised Guidelines applies solely to filing an MR on the specific meritorious motions expressly listed therein, as the Supreme Court underscored in *Merle Bautista Palacpac v. Sandiganbayan [Fifth Division] and the Office of the Special Prosecutor [The Ombudsman]*⁵⁷ (Palacpac), where it ruled in this wise:

[U]nder Section 3(2)(c) of the Revised Guidelines, the meritorious motions that can be filed before the courts are as follows:

c. Meritorious Motions. — Motions that allege plausible grounds supported by relevant documents and/or competent evidence, except those that are already covered by the Revised Guidelines, are meritorious motions, such as:

v. Motion to quash information on the grounds that the facts charged do not constitute an offense, lack of jurisdiction, extinction of criminal action or liability, or double jeopardy under Sec. 3, pars. (a), (b), (g), and (i), Rule 117[.]

Here, petitioner's ground in seeking the quashal of the Information is the alleged failure of the Ombudsman to substantially conform with Section 3 (e) of Rule 117 of the Rules of Court. Although Section 3 (e) is one of the grounds to quash the Information under Rule 117 of the Rules of Court, it fails, however, to qualify as a meritorious motion following the Revised Guidelines.

While the Court adheres to petitioner that the use of "such as" in Section 2 (c) of the Revised Guidelines, in defining meritorious motions, only indicates or enumerates examples of it without exclusion of all others, a reading of subparagraph (v) of the same section expressly enumerates the grounds for a motion to quash information to be qualified as a meritorious motion: the facts charged do not constitute an offense, lack of jurisdiction, extinction of criminal action or liability, or double jeopardy under Section 3, paragraphs (a), (b), (g), and (i), Rule 117. Following the rules of statutory construction, the express mention of one person, thing, or consequence implies the exclusion of all others — expressio unius est exclusio alterius.

In other words, where a statute, by its terms, is expressly limited to certain matters, it may not, by interpretation or construction, be extended to other matters because the legislature would not make a specific enumeration in a statute if its intention is not to restrict the meaning and confine the terms to those expressly mentioned.

In Palacpac, the Supreme Court also compared the five (5)-day period for filing an MR on meritorious motions under the Revised Guidelines with the 15-day period for filing an MR under the 2018 Revised Internal Rules of the Sandiganbayan. The High Court held that the 15-day reglementary period applies when the assailed resolution is in the nature of a decision or final order, as follows:

...

[T]he Sandiganbayan did not err when it ruled that the motion should have been filed on or before August 5, 2019; that when the motion was filed only on August 15, 2019, it was already way beyond the five-day reglementary period provided under the Revised Guidelines.

Notably, the Motion for Reconsideration was filed to seek reconsideration of the Sandiganbayan's first assailed Resolution dated July 24, 2019. The first assailed Resolution is neither a decision nor a final order as required in the 2018 Revised Internal Rules of the Sandiganbayan (2018 Revised Rules). Thus, the 2018 Revised Rules which provides for a 15-day reglementary period within which to file a motion for reconsideration of a decision or final order finds no application in the case.⁵⁸

Applying the foregoing by analogy, since the first assailed Resolution⁵⁹ in this case constitutes a decision or final order (dismissing the case the ground of prescription) and it was issued motu proprio—not to resolve any of the meritorious motions mentioned in the Revised Guidelines—the applicable reglementary period for filing an MR should still be the general rule of 15 days, as stipulated under Section 1, Rule 15 of the RRCTA.

Thus, with the timely filing of petitioner's MR⁶⁰ (on the first assailed Resolution) as well as the Verified Petition for Review⁶¹ (vis-à-vis the present Amended Verified Petition for Review⁶²), the Court En Banc validly acquired jurisdiction over this case.

However, while petitioner may have filed both its MR⁶³ (on the first assailed Resolution⁶⁴) and Verified Petition for Review⁶⁵ (vis-à-vis the present Amended Verified Petition for Review⁶⁶) on time, the same cannot be said of the subject Information.⁶⁷

THE SUBJECT INFORMATION WAS BELATEDLY FILED, HENCE PETITIONER'S RIGHT TO PROSECUTE RESPONDENTS FOR WILLFUL FAILURE TO PAY DEFICIENCY INCOME TAX (IT) HAS ALREADY PRESCRIBED.

Petitioner insists that prescription has not yet set in as the prescriptive period in this case was tolled upon the filing of the JCA⁶⁸ against respondents before the DOJ on 28 February 2019.

We disagree.

In resolving the issue of the prescription of the offense charged, the following factors should be considered: (1) the period of prescription for the offense charged; (2) the time when the prescriptive period starts to run; and, (3) the time when the prescriptive period is interrupted.⁶⁹

The first and second considerations are undisputed. The issue, however, arises with the third consideration.

For an orderly disposition of the issues, We will briefly address the first and second considerations before proceeding to the third.

- I. THE PRESCRIPTIVE PERIOD FOR WILLFUL FAILURE TO PAY DEFICIENCY INCOME TAX (IT) UNDER SECTION 255 OF THE NATIONAL INTERNAL REVENUE CODE (NIRC) OF 1997, AS AMENDED; IS FIVE (5) YEARS UNDER SECTION 281 OF THE NIRC OF 1997, AS AMENDED.

Regarding the first consideration, i.e., prescriptive period of the offense charged, Section 281 of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, governs the prescriptive period for criminal tax actions and provides as follows:

SEC. 281. Prescription for Violations of any Provision of this Code. — All violations of any provision of this Code shall prescribe after five (5) years.

Prescription shall begin to run from the day of the commission of the violation of the law, and if the same be not known at the time, from the discovery thereof and the institution of judicial proceedings for its investigation and punishment.

The prescription shall be interrupted when proceedings are instituted against the guilty persons and shall begin to run again if the proceedings are dismissed for reasons not constituting jeopardy.

The term of prescription shall not run when the offender is absent from the Philippines.⁷⁰

The above provision clearly states that the prescriptive period for all violations of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, including the offense charged in this case (i.e., willful failure to pay deficiency tax under Section 255⁷¹ of the NIRC of 1997, as amended), is five (5) years.

II. THE PRESCRIPTIVE PERIOD FOR WILLFUL FAILURE TO PAY DEFICIENCY INCOME TAX (IT) UNDER SECTION 255 OF THE NATIONAL INTERNAL REVENUE CODE (NIRC) OF 1997, AS AMENDED, BEGINS TO RUN UPON THE FINALITY OF THE ASSESSMENT.

With regard to the second consideration, i.e., the time when the prescriptive period starts to run, Section 281⁷² of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, provides for two (2) reckoning points for when the prescriptive period begins to run:

1. If the day of the commission is known, prescription begins to run from the day of the commission of the violation of the law; or,
2. If the day of the commission is unknown, from its discovery and the institution of judicial proceedings for its investigation and punishment.

In the case of *Emilio E. Lim, Sr. and Antonia Sun Lim v. Court of Appeals and People of the Philippines*⁷³ (Lim, Sr.), the Supreme Court ruled that the crime of failure to pay tax is committed only after receipt of the final notice and demand for payment, coupled with willful refusal to pay the taxes due within the allotted period, viz:

Inasmuch as the final notice and demand for payment of the deficiency taxes was served on petitioners on July 3, 1968, it was only then that the cause of action on the part of the BIR accrued. This is so because prior to the receipt of the letter-assessment, no violation has yet been committed by the taxpayers. The offense was committed only after receipt was coupled with the willful refusal to pay the taxes due within the allot[t]ed period. The two criminal informations, having been filed on June 23, 1970, are well-within the five-year prescriptive period and are not time-barred.

The Supreme Court further applied this interpretation in *Petronila C. Tupaz v. Honorable Benedicto B. Ulep Presiding Judge of RTC Quezon City, Branch 105, and the People of the Philippines*⁷⁴ (Tupaz), where it held that the offense of failure to pay deficiency income tax can only be deemed committed after the taxpayer has been served a notice and demand for payment of the deficiency taxes, viz:

We agree with the Solicitor General that the offense has not prescribed. Petitioner was charged with failure to pay deficiency income tax after repeated demands by the taxing authority. In Lim, Sr. v. Court of Appeals, we stated that[,] by its nature[,] the violation could only be committed after service of notice and demand for payment of the deficiency taxes upon the taxpayer. Hence, it cannot be said that the offense has been committed as early as 1980, upon filing of the income tax return. This is so because prior to the finality of the assessment, the taxpayer has not committed any violation for nonpayment of the tax. The offense was committed only after the finality of the assessment coupled with taxpayer's willful refusal to pay the taxes within the allotted period.

A plain reading of the subject Information⁷⁵ reveals that the alleged violation of Section 255⁷⁶ of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, is that respondents “willfully, unlawfully and feloniously fail[ed] to pay its correct income tax with the [BIR] for [TY] 2010 in the amount of Thirty One Million Two Hundred Seventy Two Thousand Nine Hundred Sixty Six and 72/100 Pesos (Php31,272,966.72), exclusive of surcharges and interest, despite service of notices and demand letters for them to pay the said tax including the Final Notice Before Seizure dated March 16, 2016[.]”

Clearly, the commission of the tax offense is known. Therefore, the applicable reckoning point is the date of the commission of the violation, i.e., failure to pay deficiency tax, specifically the date when the deficiency tax assessment became final.

III. THE PRESCRIPTIVE PERIOD FOR WILLFUL FAILURE TO PAY DEFICIENCY INCOME TAX (IT) IS INTERRUPTED BY THE FILING OF THE INFORMATION BEFORE THE COURT OF TAX APPEALS (CTA).

As earlier mentioned, the present controversy lies with the third consideration, i.e., the time when the prescriptive period is interrupted.

Petitioner claims that the filing with the DOJ of the JCA against respondents for the conduct of preliminary investigation on 28 February 2019 not only triggered the commencement of the prescriptive period but also interrupted it, pursuant to Section 281⁸⁸ of the NIRC of 1997, as amended. In support of this theory, petitioner cites Section 1, Rule 110 of the Revised Rules on Criminal Procedure (RRCP), which provides:

...
Sec. 1. Institution of criminal actions. — Criminal actions shall be instituted as follows:

- (a) For offenses where a preliminary investigation is required pursuant to section 1 of Rule 112, by filing the complaint with the proper officer for the purpose of conducting the requisite preliminary investigation.
- (b) For all other offenses, by filing the complaint or information directly with the Municipal Trial Courts and Municipal Circuit Trial Courts, or the complaint with the office of the prosecutor. In Manila and other chartered cities, the complaint shall be filed with the office of the prosecutor unless otherwise provided in their charters.

The institution of the criminal action shall interrupt the running period of prescription of the offense charged unless otherwise provided in special laws.

Petitioner further cites *People of the Philippines v. Mateo A. Lee, Jr.*⁸⁹ (Lee, Jr.), which quoted *People of the Philippines v. Ma. Theresa Pangilinan*⁹⁰ (Pangilinan), to support its claim that the prescriptive period is interrupted by the institution of proceedings for preliminary investigation and that this interruption applies equally to cases under special laws and those governed by the Revised Penal Code (RPC).

Petitioner, thus, maintains that prescription has not set in as the filing of the JCA with the DOJ for the conduct of a preliminary investigation triggered both the commencement and interruption of the prescriptive period.

We cannot subscribe to petitioner's theory.

As early as 1990, the Supreme Court has held in Lim, Sr. that the prescriptive period is interrupted by the filing of the Information in court. Specifically, the High Court interpreted Section 354 of the NIRC of 1939, as amended, (which contains the exact provision as the present Section 281⁹¹ of the NIRC of 1997, as amended) to mean that tax cases are practically imprescriptible for as long as the period from the discovery and institution of judicial proceedings for its investigation and punishment, up to the filing of the Information in court does not exceed five (5) years, viz:⁹²

The Court is inclined to adopt the view of the Solicitor General. For while that particular point might have been raised in the Ching Lak case, the Court, at that time, did not give a definitive ruling which would have settled the question once and for all. As Section 354 [now Section 281] stands in the statute book (and to this day it has remained unchanged) it would indeed seem that tax cases, such as the present ones, are practically imprescriptible for as long as the period from the discovery and institution of judicial proceedings for its investigation and punishment, up to the filing of the information in court does not exceed five (5) years.

Unless amended by the Legislature, Section 354 [now Section 281] stays in the Tax Code as it was written during the days of the Commonwealth. And as it is, must be applied regardless of its apparent one-sidedness in favor of the Government. In criminal cases, statutes of limitations are acts of grace, a surrendering by the sovereign of its right to prosecute. They receive a strict construction in favor of the Government and limitations in such cases will not be presumed in the absence of clear legislation.

Then, in 2005, the Supreme Court approved A.M. No. 05-11-07-CTA, otherwise known as the RRCTA, which provides that the prescriptive period for violations of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, among others, is interrupted by the filing of an Information before the Court, consistent with the pronouncement in Lim, Sr. Specifically, Section 2, Rule 9 of the RRCTA reads:

...

SEC. 2. Institution of Criminal Actions. — All criminal actions before the Court in Division in the exercise of its original jurisdiction shall be instituted by the filing of an information in the name of the People of the Philippines. In criminal actions involving violations of the National Internal Revenue Code and other laws enforced by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue must approve their filing. In criminal actions involving violations of the Tariff and Customs Code and other laws enforced by the Bureau of Customs, the Commissioner of Customs must approve their filing.

The institution of the criminal action shall interrupt the running of the period of prescription.⁹³

It is clear from the foregoing jurisprudence and RRCTA provision that criminal cases falling within the jurisdiction of the Court in Division are instituted by filing an Information before the said Court. This particular mode of 'institution' of the criminal action shall interrupt the running of the prescriptive period.

Thus, petitioner's reliance on Section 1, Rule 110 of the RRCP is misplaced. It should also be noted that under Section 3⁹⁴, Rule 1 of the RRCTA, the ROC in the Philippines, including the RRCP, only apply suppletorily to the provisions of the RRCTA. Since Section 2, Rule 9 of the RRCTA above explicitly states that criminal actions are instituted by filing an Information with the Court in Division, it is precisely the filing of the Information before the Court in Division that interrupts the prescriptive period.

Regarding petitioner's reliance on the Supreme Court's rulings in Lee, Jr. and Pangilinan, it is crucial to note that those cases were based on the principle that offenses under special laws are generally governed by Act No. 3326⁹⁵, as amended by Act No. 3763.⁹⁶ This statute was specifically enacted to establish prescriptive periods for violations of special laws that lack their own provisions on such matters.

However, Section 2, Rule 9 of the RRCTA provides the rule that the CTA—the Court responsible for prosecuting alleged violations of the NIRC of 1997, as amended—must adhere to. This rule is the controlling authority regarding the prescriptive period in this context. General rules apply in a supplementary manner only when special rules do not address the relevant issue or procedure.⁹⁷ Since the RRCTA contains a specific rule on interrupting the prescriptive period for prosecuting violations of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, the corresponding rules in both the RRCP and Act No. 3326, as amended by Act No. 3763, do not apply in this instance.

In light of the foregoing discussions, the five (5)-year prescriptive period is interrupted by filing the Information with the Court, not by filing a complaint with the DOJ.

As the First Division correctly determined, petitioner's right to prosecute respondents for the alleged violation of Section 255⁹⁸ of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, or willful failure to pay deficiency tax, has already prescribed.

Counting from the finality of the assessment—the day after the last day for filing a judicial appeal, which was 05 September 2015—the Information⁹⁹ should have been filed before this Court within five (5) years therefrom, or until 04 September 2020. Clearly, when the subject Information was filed before this Court on 05 December 2022, more than two (2) years had already passed since the government’s right to institute a criminal action prescribed.

To be sure, criminal offenses for violations of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, including known offenses, are not intended to be imprescriptible. However, if the prescriptive period is interrupted once preliminary investigation proceedings are instituted before the DOJ, it suggests that there is no fixed deadline for filing an Information in court. As a result, the offense could indefinitely remain actionable once a complaint reaches the DOJ. This grants the DOJ discretionary power over when to act, potentially allowing the misuse of the rule on prescription as a means to intimidate, harass, and disrupt taxpayers suspected of tax violations.¹⁰⁰

Stated otherwise, prescription protects taxpayers who are at the mercy of the taxing and prosecuting authorities from unreasonable, long drawn out or abusive investigations. It serves as a safeguard against the abuse of power by unscrupulous public officials, including the possibility of initiating vexatious, arbitrary, and oppressive investigations.¹⁰¹

Again, given that the Information¹⁰² was filed on 05 December 2022, beyond the five (5)-year prescriptive period under Section 281¹⁰³ of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, that ended on 04 September 2020, petitioner’s right to initiate this case against respondents had already expired by the time of filing. Consequently, this justifies the dismissal of the case on the ground of prescription.

Jurisprudence has it that the waiver or loss of the right to prosecute the offender is automatic and by operation of law.¹⁰⁴ Evidently, in this case, prescription set in automatically when petitioner failed to file the Information within the five (5)-year prescriptive period provided under Section 281 of the NIRC of 1997, as amended.

All told, the Court En Banc finds no compelling reason to reverse the First Division's assailed Resolutions.

WHEREFORE, with the foregoing considerations, the present "Amended Verified Petition for Review (of the Resolution dated March 6, 2023)" filed by petitioner People of the Philippines on 18 July 2023 is hereby DENIED for lack of merit.
